97. Can cabin assignments change automatically?
98. How can I get the cheapest cabin upgrade?
99. What happens if the ship sells out?
100. Who should I contact to change my Silversea cabin?

1. Can I change my cabin number after making a booking?

Yes. If a room in the exact same price category is open, you or your travel agent can switch your room number for free.

2. Can I change my room after the final payment date?

Yes, you can upgrade to a higher-priced room by paying the difference. However, you cannot downgrade to a cheaper room to get money back after the final payment deadline has passed.

3. What happens if the price of my cruise drops?

If you are before the final payment window, Silversea will usually reprice your cruise to the lower rate. If you are after final payment, they generally will not refund you, but they may offer you a complimentary upgrade to a higher cabin category if one is empty.

4. What is a "Guarantee Cabin" (GTY), and can I change it?

A Guarantee Cabin means you pay a lower rate to let Silversea pick your room number later. Once they assign your room, you are generally locked in. However, if you really dislike the assignment, you can sometimes call and ask to be moved to an open room within that exact same designated category code.

5. Will I lose my onboard credit (OBC) if I upgrade my room?

It depends. If you upgrade by paying the current prevailing rate, your booking transitions to the current active promotion. If that current promotion doesn't include the free onboard credit you originally had, you might lose it. Always ask the agent to confirm your "promotional perks" before finalized changes.

6. Can I upgrade my cabin once I am on board the ship?

It is incredibly rare. Modern cruise ships routinely sail at 100% to 105% capacity. While you can visit Guest Services on Day 1 to ask if there are any cancellations or no-shows, you should assume the ship is completely full.

7. How does the RoyalUp bidding process work?

You submit a cash bid per person for upgraded categories. If Silversea accepts your bid (usually anywhere from 30 days down to 2 days before sailing), you get upgraded instantly. If your bid is rejected, you keep your original room and pay nothing.

8. Can I choose my deck and room location with a RoyalUp upgrade?

No. RoyalUp upgrades are entirely automated based on remaining unsold inventory. You accept the upgrade blind to the specific room number.

9. What is the penalty for cancelling and rebooking for a better room?

If you are outside of the final payment window, you can cancel or change without standard penalties (unless you booked a Non-Refundable Deposit fare, which incurs a change fee per person). Inside the final payment window, standard cancellation penalties apply.

10. Can I change my cabin if I booked a Non-Refundable Deposit fare?

Yes, but Silversea charges a change fee (typically $100 per person) to alter the ship, sail date, or completely change the booking structure on non-refundable fares.

11. Can I add a third or fourth person to my cabin later?

Only if your specific cabin is rated for higher occupancy (has a pull-out sofa or pull-down Pullman beds) and the ship has not reached its maximum overall coast guard passenger capacity. If your room can't hold them, you will have to pay to upgrade to a larger family cabin.

12. Can I change my dining time when I change my cabin?

Your dining time (Traditional Early, Late, or My Time Dining) is independent of your room category. Changing your room will not automatically alter your dinner reservations.

13. Does upgrading to a suite give me extra loyalty points?

Yes. Silversea's Crown & Anchor Society awards 1 point per night for standard rooms, but 2 points per night if you book and stay in a standard Suite. Note: Winning a RoyalUp bid into a suite does grant the extra points.

14. What is the difference between an upgrade and a lateral move?

A lateral move keeps you in the same price tier (e.g., swapping an oceanview room on the port side for an oceanview room on the starboard side). An upgrade moves you to a completely higher tier of luxury or size (e.g., Interior to Balcony).

15. If I change my cabin, does my luggage tag change?

Yes. Your digital cruise planner will update with your new room number. Make sure to print out the updated luggage tags before leaving for the port so the porters deliver your bags to the correct room!

Are you trying to move to a specific room right now, or are you hoping to bid on a luxury upgrade through their email program?

16. What happens to my prepaid gratuities and Wi-Fi packages if I change cabins?

Your prepaid packages, shore excursions, Wi-Fi, and beverage packages are tied to your Booking ID number, not your cabin number. When you switch rooms, all of these purchases automatically transfer over to your new cabin seamlessly.

17. Can I link my cabin change with friends sailing on the same ship?

Yes. If you make a lateral move or an upgrade over the phone, you can give the agent your friends' booking reservation numbers. They can cross-reference the accounts to ensure your new cabin is on the same deck or as close to them as current availability allows.

18. What are "Connecting Cabins" and can I switch to them?

Connecting cabins have an actual interior door inside the room allowing you to walk between two staterooms without going into the hallway. If you initially booked separate rooms and want to switch to connecting cabins, you must do so manually through an agent. This depends entirely on finding a side-by-side pair that hasn't been booked yet.

19. If I win a RoyalUp upgrade, do my travel companions get upgraded too?

Only if they are in the exact same stateroom reservation (same booking number). If your friends or family are in a second cabin with a different booking number, their room will not be upgraded with yours, even if your reservations are linked for dining.

20. Can I decline a RoyalUp upgrade if I don't like the cabin location?

No. All RoyalUp bids are final and legally binding. Once your bid is accepted, your credit card is charged immediately, and your old cabin is released to the public. You cannot get your old room back or request a different location if you dislike where they place you.

21. What is an "Obstructed View" cabin, and can I change out of it?

An obstructed view means a lifeboat, ship pillar, or structural overhang partially blocks your window or balcony view. These rooms are cheaper. If you accidentally book one and want a clear view, you will have to pay the price difference to move to a standard, unobstructed category.

22. Can I downgrade my cabin to save money?

- Before Final Payment: Yes. You can downgrade to a cheaper category, and Silversea will adjust your balance downward.
- After Final Payment: You can technically move to a lower room if it's available, but you will forfeit the price difference. Silversea will not issue a refund or onboard credit for downgrading after the final payment deadline.

23. If I change to a Suite, do I get priority boarding?

Yes! If you upgrade your cabin to a Grand Suite or higher (Sky Class or Star Class on Oasis and Icon-class ships), you immediately inherit all suite perks. This includes priority terminal check-in, a dedicated departure lounge, and access to the exclusive Suite Lounge and Coastal Kitchen restaurant.

24. Does changing my cabin change my muster station?

It very well might. Your safety muster station is determined by where your cabin is located on the ship. When you change rooms, check your Silversea app or the back of your new stateroom door on Day 1 to see if your designated emergency assembly station has shifted.

25. Is it cheaper to upgrade my cabin closer to the sail date?

It is a gamble. If a ship isn't selling well, Silversea may drop prices on higher-tier rooms 30 to 60 days before sailing, making upgrades very cheap. However, if the ship is nearly sold out, the remaining rooms will skyrocket in price, or there won't be any left to choose from.

26. What is the "Muster 2.0" process if I change cabins?

Silversea uses a digital safety drill called Muster 2.0. Even if you switch cabins late, you will still just watch the safety videos on your smartphone or stateroom TV, then walk to your newly assigned muster station to have your SeaPass card scanned by a crew member.

27. Can I bid on multiple categories through RoyalUp?

Yes, you can place separate bids on multiple room types (e.g., bidding $100 for a Spacious Balcony, $200 for a Junior Suite, and $400 for an Owner's Suite). Silversea will only accept one bid. Whichever one opens up first and fits their upgrade algorithm will be the one you get.

28. If I change my cabin, do my cruise line transfer tickets change?

No. Your airport-to-ship bus transfers or Silversea-arranged shuttle details remain identical because they are linked directly to your name and flight schedule, not your room placement.

29. Can I change cabins mid-cruise if I experience bad motion sickness?

Only in an absolute medical emergency and if the ship has an empty cabin available (which is highly unlikely). If you are prone to motion sickness, it is best to book a cabin mid-ship on a lower deck right from the start, as this area experiences the least amount of pivot and sway.

30. How do I know if my cabin change request went through?

As soon as a change is finalized by an agent or online, Silversea automatically fires off a new Booking Confirmation Invoice to your email address. This PDF will display your updated cabin number, deck location, and any adjusted financial balances.

Do any of these specific situations apply to your upcoming cruise—like dealing with a guarantee cabin or looking into a suite upgrade?
